Carlisle Companies' Trail King Announces Temporary Consolidation of Operations

CHARLOTTE, NORTH CAROLINA, May 13, 2009 - Carlisle Companies Incorporated (NYSE:CSL) announced today that Trail King Industries, the Company's manufacturer of specialized heavy truck trailers, will temporarily consolidate production operations of two plant locations into Trail King's Mitchell, SD facility. The West Fargo, ND facility will take a temporary production shutdown in early June, with plans to resume normal production the second week of August, 2009. The Company's Brookville, PA facility will temporarily shut down production the second week of June and plans to resume normal production the second week of September, 2009. All three locations will continue to provide normal parts and maintenance services during the temporary consolidation of production operations.

David A. Roberts, Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer, said, "The temporary consolidation of production at Trail King is a necessary response to current market demand. This action allows us to better align our production capabilities with current market dynamics, while maintaining the highest level of service to our customers. Trail King continues to be an important component of the Carlisle portfolio."
